

Section I - Longsword

Gear Requirements

All gear is subject to ringside review and approval. Any missing equipment except clothing and athletic cup can be borrowed at the event if you do not have your own, first come, first served. If you are unsure of whether or not your gear qualifies for the event, please reach out the tournament organizers prior to your arrival.

- Mask with occipital protection
- Hard gloves
- Jacket
- Elbow and knee protection
- Gorget, standalone or built into gambeson/jacket
- Clothing that leaves no skin exposed
- Athletic cup for men
- Chest protector for women (recommended, not mandatory)

Matches and Rounds

- A “Match” consists of a number of Rounds, depending upon the phase of the tournament, and represents each fencer pairing.
- Rounds do not have a time limit, and end with one of three results: 1 point gold fencer, 1 point black fencer, or Double-Kill.
- Non-Elimination matches do not necessarily have a clear winner, and both fencers can theoretically leave one with no points.
- If no victor is determined by the final round of an Elimination match, the fencers will continue to fight “Sudden Death” rounds until one is determined.

Tournament Progression

- Fencers will initially be seeded into pools based upon their HEMA Ratings fencing record and by school affiliation.
- At the completion of this round of pools, fencers will be separated into three skill divisions based upon their performance in their pool. This is the beginning of the Elimination phase of the tournament, and no fencers will be cut from the competition prior to this point.
- Each skill division will fight one round of Elimination pools, at the conclusion of which each division’s roster will be reduced by half or to the top 16 competitors, whichever is greater.
- A second round of Elimination pools will be fought, at the conclusion of which each division’s roster will be reduced to the top 8 competitors.
- A third round of Elimination pools will be fought, and the top four competitors for each division will be placed into a finals bracket for the final two matches of their division.

Tournament Officials and Roles

There will be one Referee, two or four Judges and a scorekeeper for each ring.

Match Flow

- There will be either one or two Judges for each combatant, depending upon the phase of the tournament. The fencer that they're judging for will be distinguished by whether they have a black or a gold baton. Judges with a black baton will look for strikes delivered FROM the combatant with a black armband. Judges with a gold baton will look for strikes delivered FROM the combatant with a gold armband.
- At the start of the match, the Referee will verify that the scorekeeper is ready to begin. He or she will then check with the judges and fencers, in that order. Once everyone is ready, he or she will start the fight.
- Judges are encouraged to move around the ring during the Match to maintain a good view of the action.
- When a Judge witnesses a clean hit for his or her fencer, the Judge will call "Point." The referee will then call "Halt" to the combatants and stop the round. Fencers should stop combat immediately, but should stay on guard until it is clear that the halt has been acknowledged by both sides.
- At Halt of the round, the Judges will immediately lower their heads to prevent being influenced by the other Judges or Fencers.
- The Referee will first ask for the Fencers' opinions by calling out "Fencers?"
- The fencers will then indicate whether they hit their opponent (lift sword overhead), whether the opponent had a clean hit on them (sword pointed at opponent), or will choose not to claim or award a point (sword resting at side).
- The Referee will then ask for the Judges' scoring by calling out "Judges?"
- The Judges will then indicate whether their fencer hit his or her opponent (baton out) or did not (baton at side). If necessary, the judge can raise their hand to call the Referee over for clarification.
- The Referee will tally up the votes and announce the result. The Scorekeeper will record it.
- At the conclusion of the Match, the Referee will ask the Judges to rotate their starting positions clockwise around the ring.

Referee Responsibilities and Prerogatives

- To halt combat, either in acknowledgement of a Judge's call or to stop an unsafe situation
- To warn or disqualify fencers for intentionally or recklessly causing unsafe situations
- To adjudicate between the Fencers and Judges to determine the winner of a Round. If necessary, the Referee can cast a tie-breaker vote.
- To negate the Round and re-do it, If the result of a Round was neither clear victory for one combatant nor a clear double-kill
- To determine the outcome of ringen-am-schwert (see "Ringen-am-schwert," below)
- To determine a strike's quality if it is in question

Fencer Prerogatives

- If a Fencer needs to call a "time-out" for any reason, they must verbally get the attention of the Referee by calling "Time-Out Ref" or something equivalent.

- If a Fencer has a question about how a match was decided, they are allowed to ask the Referee for clarification. This is so Fencers can get clarification about a decision, not so they can argue about the outcome.
- If a Fencer feels like a scoring action against them was missed, the Fencer may call “Halt” and point at their opponent to indicate that action.
- If a fencer decides to leave a match for any reason, the match will be considered a forfeit.

Scoring

At the Sword

- Thrusts, hews (cuts), slices and pommel strikes are all considered “Scoring Actions.”
- Any Scoring Action with quality will end the round. There are no differing point values for different targets.
- If a hit is considered to be “light” or struck with the flat, the Judges may overlook the strike or the Referee may throw it out.
- Hews can be made to any part of the body but must have at least a forty five degree arc from start to finish.
- Slices must be made to a vulnerable target area (wrists, underarm, belly, head or neck) with a pushing/pulling pressure.
- Pommel strikes must be made with control, and only to the mask.
- One handed strikes of all types will be highly scrutinized for quality.
- “Ring-outs” are NOT considered a scoring action. If one or both combatants are forced out of the ring, the combatants will be stopped and reset in “Krieg” (close striking distance) in the center of the ring.

Ringen am Schwert

There will be times when fencers get bound up at close range. In these cases, wrestling at the sword is permitted and can result in a Scoring Action.

- Scoring Actions unique to Ringen am Schwert include throws, disarms and opponent containment with clear dominance. Examples of clear dominance are:
 - Lifting (but not slamming) your opponent
 - Establishing a mount position after both opponents end up on the ground (due to a trip or slip). If fencers do end up fighting for dominance on the ground, the Referee will perform a 10 count to determine dominance. If none is established, the fencers will be reset in Krieg (close striking distance) in the center of the ring.
- Valid scoring actions with the weapons during a Ringen am Schwert engagement will end the round.
- While this event is being held outside on grass (as opposed to a venue with a concrete or wooden floor), a throw with intent from almost any height can be damaging, even with mats. When approaching someone in order to throw them in this competition, it is more important that you show control of them rather than throwing them powerfully to the earth. While a basic hip toss or trap is less-likely to seriously injure someone, any throws that involve a lift and drop will be sternly evaluated for “excessive force,” and may result in disqualification. At the end of the day, we want everyone to go home in one piece, whether you win that round or not.

Illegal Actions

- Striking to the back of the head
- Striking to the groin
- Striking with the crossguard
- Striking with a part of the body (punches, kicks, etcetera), with the exception of “push-kicks” used to create distance
- Mortschlag strikes
- Throwing the weapon or parts of the weapon
- Continuing to fight after "Halt" is called
- Intentionally ending a round by stepping out of the ring
- Reckless or unsportsmanlike behavior, including throws that endanger the health of the thrown person
- Arguing with event staff or being disrespectful, in or out of the ring

Performance of an Illegal Action will result in a warning. Cumulative warnings may lead to forfeiture of the match, and in extreme cases, expulsion from the event. All warnings will be documented and recorded on the Scorecard.
